

ISAAC . . .

Get right off that cellar door; don't you know that clothes cost money? "Don't cost much," says Isaac, "when you buy them at SINAUER'S—besides I have been sliding here all afternoon and it hasn't hurt my suit a bit." Ma sighed a sigh and Ike crawled up the cellar door for another slide. BOYS ROUGH AND READY SUITS at all prices. New styles for fall and winter season. Our suits keep the boys inside of them and please ma, who does the mending and pa who pays the bills. All sizes.

Married in Kansas.

One of the most beautiful home weddings was that of Miss Bessie V. Wright to Preston B. Smith of Waterloo, Mo., at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. Wright at Tonganoxie, Kansas, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, 1901, at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. J. C. Given of Lexington, Mo., officiating.

The beautiful country home was lighted from cellar to garret and made a most pleasing picture of the joyous occasion.

At the appointed hour the bride and groom entered from the library with the attendants, Mr. Pearl R. Smith, brother of the groom, and Miss Marie Coss, both of Lexington, Mo. The bride wore a pale blue organdie with white ribbon and lace applique trimmings, which was very becoming to her, a decided brunette. She carried a large bouquet of bride's roses, a gift of the groom. The groom wore the conventional black. Rev. J. C. Given met the bridal party in the center of the large drawing room where about seventy-five guests from among the best people of Leavenworth, Kansas, were assembled, and in a most pleasing and impressive manner spoke those words which made them husband and wife. The bridal party then led the way to the spacious dining-room where a most elegant repast was served. Before returning to the drawing room the bride's cake was cut by the bridesmaid and each one was given a piece with pleasant wishes to the bride for her future happiness. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents.

Among those from a distance were Miss Elsie Smith, of Waterloo, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snelton and Mrs. Zach Shelton, of Pleasant Hill, Mo.

The bridal party left Thursday evening for Waterloo, Mo., where Mr. and Mrs. Wm. R. Smith, parents of the groom, received them with an elaborate wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston B. Smith will live near Wellington, Mo.

Stories of Old Hickory.

The following interesting story is told in General Davis' article in the August Literary Era about Andrew Jackson at New Orleans:

"It is related that Edward Livingston, whom Jackson had just appointed his aid de camp, had invited him home to dinner and sent word to his wife, who had some fashionable ladies to dine with her. This news created consternation, and the young ladies whispered to each other: 'What shall we do with this wild general from Tennessee?' Jackson entered, erect, composed, bronzed, clad in his uniform of coarse blue cloth and yellow buckskin and other appointments to correspond. He bowed to the ladies magnificently, and all arose. Mrs. Livingston came forward to receive her distinguished guest, who met her with a dignity and grace never surpassed, if equaled, conducted her to a seat on the sofa and sat by her side. The fashionable creoles were almost dumb with astonishment. During dinner he conversed with the ladies in an easy, agreeable manner, in the tone of society. He arose soon from the table and left the house with Mr. Livingston. As soon as they had gone, the young ladies said to their hostess in one chorus: 'Is this your backwoodsman?'

Why madam, he is a prince!"

In that same article General Davis quotes Alexander Walker's description of Jackson's appearance when he arrived at New Orleans:

"His complexion was sallow and unhealthy, his hair iron-gray, his body emaciated like one just recovering from a lingering and painful sickness. But the fierce glare of his bright and hawk-like eye betrayed a soul and spirit that triumphed over the infirmities of the body. His dress was simple and nearly threadbare. A small leather cap protected his head, and a short, Spanish blue cloak his body, while his feet and legs were incased in high dragoon boots, long ignorant of polish or blacking and which reached to his knees."

When York Was King.

The romantic drama in three acts, "When York Was King," written by George B. Steele, of Lexington, was put on at the New Grand opera house Thursday night and drew a large and fashionable audience. Though the various characters were impersonated by home people the work in many instances would have reflected credit upon a professional. The play was elegantly costumed.

The plot of "When York Was King" reaches back to 1482, the period in England's history known as "the war of the roses," and bears interest throughout. Mr. Steele says that the drama was suggested to his mind by a brief story that appeared in the Argosy magazine for July, 1900. It is impossible for the INTELLIGENCER to personally compliment each one of the players in Thursday night's performance as too much space would be required. Suffice it to say all acquitted themselves creditably.

An attractive feature was the music under the personal direction of A. Lawton Gordon.

Mrs. H. E. Pierpont returned to her home in Chicago Wednesday morning, having been called here by the death of her father, Wm. F. Kerdliff.

REV. DR. WHARTON COMING.

In Order to Accommodate Crowd Tabernacle to be Erected.

Through the efforts of the Ministers' Alliance the services of Rev. Dr. Wharton, of Baltimore, have been secured for a three weeks' union evangelistic services, beginning about November 1st. Dr. Wharton recently closed a meeting at Marshall, during which nearly three hundred were added to the various churches. In order to provide a suitable place for holding these meetings it has been decided to erect a tabernacle on the lot just south of the Taubman foundry.

To this end a committee composed of Messrs. Geo. M. Catron, J. G. Worthington, W. T. Bell, Fred Winkler, J. R. Moorehead and Geo. Zimmerman, representing all the churches, has been appointed to solicit subscriptions and erect the building.

This committee will receive bids for the erecting of the same up to 4 o'clock this evening. A draft and specifications of the building can be seen at J. R. Moorehead's lumber office.

Opera House Next Week.

The Gibney Stock company will open at the opera house next Monday night in the sensational comedy drama in four acts entitled, "The Way of the World." This company has been under the management of Mr. Samuel Spedden for fourteen years, and this season he guarantees the company to be larger and stronger than ever, carrying eighteen people, special scenery for the production of each play presented, eight refined vaudeville artists engaged to present their specialties between the acts; a continuous performance, no long waits. Something doing every minute. No better show at any price. Ladies free with each reserved seat ticket Monday night only. Seats on sale at Crenshaw & Young's. Prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents.

Judge Pearl B. Smith, who went to Tonganoxie, Kas., to attend the wedding of his brother to Miss Wright, returned home Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Greer, who attended the annual reunion of Quantrell's men at Little Blue church in Jackson county, on Monday and Tuesday of this week, have returned home and report a most enjoyable time.

Dr. J. H. Crosswhite, of Waverly, has located a claim in the Indian country about fifteen miles from Lawton and within nine miles of a railroad. The doctor was one of the fortunate ones at the El Reno drawing.

The informal hop given by the cadets of Wentworth Military academy Tuesday evening was a most enjoyable affair. The programme of dancing arranged on neat cards was was an inviting one to the devotees of the terpsicorean art.

David H. Lyons left Monday morning for Sedalia, where he has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of the Sedalia district. Mr. Lyons has been representing this company here for the past three years, and as their agents are promoted for the work they do, we are glad to note that Mr. Lyons has won on that account. Mr. Lyons has won nine prizes, all the prizes given by his company in this district since January 1st. We are sorry to lose him as a citizen but are glad that he has a very lucrative position. Luck to you, Dave, in your new home.
